CORRESPONDENCE

We do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions of correspondents.—Ed.)Dear Mr. Editor.—I should be very pleased if you would accept the following letter for publication in your next issue. I am sure it will be of some interest to your readers, and chiefly to the citizens of Blairstown.A few days ago I had my first opportunity of cruising through the Crown Nest Pass, and of stopping off and witnessing the many vast enterprises which are developing the unlimited natural resources of that portion of the Canadian Rockies.I was particularly impressed with the modern lines upon which the towns of the Pass were building—the admirable townships, their street lay-outs, water systems, etc., and the up-to-dateness of the business and public buildings.While in Blairstown, although interested with the beautiful location of the houses and the surrounding hills, I was somewhat surprised at the unsanitary appearance of the post office of that town. The waiting room from all appearance had not known the presence of a broom for a considerable time, for the floor was literally covered with scrap paper and other material that would be an eyesore to any visitor acquainted with the cleanliness generally represented in public buildings in towns of even less importance than Blairstown.Then there were standing around the waiting room a number of men who seemed to pride in the spatters of their expectation, which altogether made the place a nursery for any kind of disease germs and a menace to the public.Such is a state of affairs, Mr.
Editor, is a very poor advertisement for a town with such a bright future in store as has the town of Blairstown. I am surprised that the public should tolerate such conditions, and trust that such a specimen as that witnessed by the writer in your local post office last week will not be allowed to meet the view of other visitors to your town.In mentioning the clever matters I do not pretend to know when to lay blame, for in many cases such a condition is partly attributable to the patrons of the post office who deliberately trash paper and other materials around without the slightest consideration for those in whose charge the institution has been placed.Thank you for space, I remain.

Yours truly

TAYLOR

D. H. Hylop, of Coleman, was the acceptable supply at the Central Baptist Church Sunday morning and evening last, in the absence of Rev. J. F. Hunter.The danger of Calgary Industrial Exhibition, June 29th to July 5th, is being distributed. The illustration depicts a cowboy, whose occupation has probably been that of a cowhand, the result of his employment."Keep his hand in" by coating a sheet of wheat from among the wheat shown on the opposite side of a barbed-wire fence. The delight of the cowboy in the success of his achievement is equalled by the tearing reduction of the inanimate sheet of wheat drawn across it. Its natural taste and flavor are increased by the taste of the horse in witnessing the frolicsome nature of his rider's employment.

The June Rod and Gun

An illustrated story descriptive of a journey up into the Arctic slope is contributed by Dr. Lester Harvey as the first article in the June issue of the June Rod and Gun, established at Woodstock, Ont., by W. T. Taylor Limited. Vacation Camps follows and will furnish a pleasant solution of the problem, what to do with the boy during the good old summer time. In an article on the Grand Cascades, the great salmon river of British Columbia, Dr. W. T. Taylor and Mr. W. H. McWhirter recall famous sportings that have fished in its waters, including Sir Charles Elton, Lord Dufferin, the Marquis of Lorne, Lords Lansdowne and Stanley. A third article on the Culture of Black and Silver Foxes also appears. In this issue and other stories an article is kept in keep with the character of the magazine and the time of the year.

Bob Coulthard

Gets the Job

Robert W. Coulthard, who was until recently manager of the West Canada collie's at Blairstown has been engaged by the city committee to make a preliminary report on the coal lease that are still available. For this preliminary work Mr. Coulthard will receive $500 and expenses, and later if the committee should want the property prospected more thoroughly Mr. Coulthard will work on a monthly salary of $600 or $700.While some of the members thought the fees a little stiff as they have only $2,500 to spend, still in view of the exceptional qualifications of the engineer in question, it was considered that Calgary was getting the services of a thoroughly qualified man very cheaply.
Mr. Coulthard will look over the mines in the Bighorn district first and later go to the Highwood wood fields.—Calgary Herald,

GREAT NORTHERN REACHES WINNIPEG

Extends Its Line From Nechako on the Canadian Border into the Heart of the Metropolis of Canadian Northwest

The World's Largest Shipment of Agricultural Machinery Inaugurates the Service

The Great Northern Railway inaugurated its trans-Canada into the City of Winnipeg over its own rails by hauling the largest train load of agricultural machinery ever handled over any railroad in the world. One hundred cars of Oil-Pull Tractors (the largest number ever shipped) from the Rumely Company at La Porte, Indiana, left St. Paul on Wednesday in two sections for Winnipeg.

By squatting on large right-of-way of the City of Winnipeg, the Great Northern has added another seventy miles to its Canadian mileage. Already it has more than six hundred miles of line in Manitoba and British Columbia. The Great Northern has won a considerable section of the west of the prairies and 1912 is relieving grain congestion in Manitoba and eastern Saskatchewan; has handled about three thousand cars of grain through Portage la Prairie and about half of that amount through Brandon. In the same time, this exclusive of what was handled on its own Manitoba line.

The Great Northern has more than ones helped the people of Western Canada in connection with coal advertising.

One of the great factors which have contributed to the agricultural development of Northwestern Canada, the railroad and the tractor engine. Prior to the movement of the world's largest train of oil-growing tractors, the Rumely Company shipped to Brandon, Alberta, 100 cars of traction engines destined to the grain fields of Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan.

This great trainload of 100 Oil-Pull tractors was valued at approximately a quarter of a million of dollars when it left the factory. The weight and duty will naturally increase in the train as it reaches Winnipeg. While the engines in the cars were of three different sizes the average weight was close to 25,000 pounds each or 1300 tons as a total. 100 brand new tractors each weighing 40,000 pounds, added 3000 tons more to the burden behind the great Mallet locomotives that handled the train.

These 100 engines would have sufficient power to equal the work of 3000 horses in stationary work such as running the plow, the separator and the thresher, plowing and harvesting involving straight forward motion the work of the engine would be cut in half, but still would require the power of 2500 horses. In some cases the power of 100 horses is the yard-stick greater number, since it is the practice to plow the tractor day and night in rush seasons. For each horsepower, however, a minimum of 25 acres of wheat and in case of barley, 30 acres of 65,000 acres which could be plowed, seeded, harvested, threshed and handled by these tractors in 100 ten hours days, we can safely estimate 1,250,000 bushels of grain added to Canada's wheat crop for year.

Each of our shipments is only an incident as compared with the stream of agricultural machinery pouring into Western Canada. A recent report of the Minister of Agriculture, Ottawa, states that in the same prairie provinces more than 300 million acres of tillable land lie in a virgin state waiting for plow and mechanical power.

From every factory in the States and several eastern Canadian factories great quantities of goods for to answer to call for more wheat and more power to raise it. Western Canada last year bought $140,000 worth of traction engines, wagons and other farm equipment.

It is in Indiana that the Rumely Company ships its solid train loads into Western Canada before the last of July and this year is shipping 100 cars per month power machinery.

The high cost of living is creating a unusual demand for bread, and in both our own Northwest and in Canada mechanical power has been the only solution.

Horses are too high priced and too expenensive to raise, and they are not about to run out of every mine in the wheat country. They cannot be produced quickly enough to take care of the increased demand for wheat, and the oil tractor appeared on the scene just in time to save one of the whole difficulty. Five important firms on the continent are building tractors and extending their facilities every year because of the wonderful growth of the Northwest and Western Canada.

As an indication of the interest aroused by the passage of these trains it is related that when the first tractor train reached Regina, Sask., in March, 1911, nearly 5000 people were waiting in the yards nearly a mile and a half, to see its arrival.

Business men in the West realize their dependence upon agriculture much more keenly than those in manufacturing towns, because business and farming have become thoroughly interwoven with the idea of using the machine for the heaviest work. A train load therefore that promises to add a million and a half dollars of dollars to Canada's wealth this year will be a great event which increased the keenest interest.

Many of the tractors are going for use on lands that have already been put into use, but the majority will go to break new land, which will be too rough for agriculture by animal power, and thus the sending of mechanical power means an actual addition to the resources of the West.

In this big train are a number of smaller tractors well adapted for general purpose work on land after it has once been broken, but the majority are of the bigger, slower, heavier high-powered type that is destined now for Canada for farm work on the great prairies.

The train is accompanied by J. J. Rumely, Vice President of the M. Rumely Company of La Porte, Indiana, makers of the Oil-Pull Tractor; E. I. Bretner, Manager of the M. Rumely Products Co., R. B. Boddette and L. W. Ellis of the Advertising Department of M. Rumely Co., several officials of the railroad company, and numerous dealers and salesmen who are each riding a few miles with the train as it passes through their various localities.
